

Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association

Chapter Handbook

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Introduction	2
Starting an APAMSA Chapter	3
Tips for Chapter Officers	7
Timeline	9
Event Ideas	11
Fundraising	15
Resources	17
Contact Us	20

	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association
APAMSA	Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare

Introduction

APAMSA is the Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association. Our mission is to bring together pre-professional students and others interested in the health issues that affect Asians Pacific Americans (APA) so that we may have a strong, collective, and public voice promoting the health and well-being of the Asian Pacific American community. APAMSA serves as an important forum for APA medical students to meet, exchange information, and develop personally and professionally. We are the only national organization representing Asian Pacific American Medical students and collectively we serve as the voice of the APA medical student and community.

History

APAMSA's foundation was laid in 1993 by Asian American students worried about the present and future of the APA community. These students began to discuss issues that they felt were ignored by existing organizations and formed groups at their local schools to help understand the unique challenges they faced as Asian Pacific Americans in medicine. Some of these issues include:

- the lack of advocates for APA health
- the nearly total disregard of APA health issues in medical school curriculums
- the Asian cultural factors leading to poor APA medical student performance in clerkships
- the scarcity of medical knowledge regarding APA health, including:
 - Epidemiology of diseases in APA populations
 - Pharmacogenetic responses to medications in APA populations
 - The delivery of cultural sensitive healthcare to the APA community.

These chapters also began to meet with each other in what would lead to the now annual APAMSA National Conference. APAMSA officially started in 1995 with the first National Conference and has grown in many directions. There are several national projects coordinated by APAMSA. These include the Hepatitis B education and immunization project and the Bone Marrow Donation project. As our membership and sponsorship increases, we hope to expand our involvement in related campaigns

JOIN US!! WWW.APAMSA.ORG

Asian Pacific Americans, often labeled as “model minorities,” actually suffer from devastating medical illnesses and in reality live far from “model” lives. As a result of this label, many of the issues that affect the APA community are often ignored. Help us provide an essential voice to a growing population of over 10 million Asian Pacific Americans!

This handbook is intended to help you develop a successful APAMSA chapter at your medical school. We recognize your leadership and dedication to APAMSA and we commend you for your efforts. Please feel free to contact the Membership Vice-President, mvp@apamsa.org or the President , president@apamsa.org, with any questions, comments, or suggestions.

	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association
APAMSA	Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare

Starting an APAMSA Chapter

The 4 required items for New Chapter membership include:

1. Chapter Charter Application : email to mvp@apamsa.org
2. Chapter Profile Summary: email to mvp@apamsa.org
3. Chapter Constitution: e-mail to mvp@apamsa.org
 $50 one time startup fee: Pay via Paypal (www.paypal.com) by sending bankaccount payments to mvp@apamsa.org, or contact cfo@apamsa.org if you would like to mail a check.

*NOTE TO ALL CHAPTERS: TO MAINTAIN ACTIVE MEMBERSHIP, EACH CHAPTER MUST SUBMIT THE REQUIRED ANNUAL CHAPTER REPORT IN THE SPRING SEMESTER.

Steps to a new APAMSA chapter:

1. Contact the Membership Vice-President at mvp@apamsa.org

The Membership VP (MVP) knows the ins and outs of starting a chapter and is here to help YOU! Don't hesitate to ask the MVP any questions regarding starting your chapter.

2. Find Support!!!

After you've learned more about APAMSA, schedule a "founders" meeting with any and everyone at your school who might be interested in joining our mission to advocate for the health and well being of Asian Pacific Americans. Get a group of people together to brainstorm ideas about some of the issues you feel are important at your school and come up with ideas about how you might address these issues. It is IMPERATIVE that you recruit first year medical students to ensure the longevity of your school's chapter!!!

3. Send in your paper work

Once you have a core group of "founders" who are committed to forming an APAMSA chapter at your school send us the following 4 items:

1. Chapter Charter Application : email to mvp@apamsa.org
2. Chapter Profile Summary: e-mail to mvp@apamsa.org
3. Chapter Constitution: e-mail to mvp@apamsa.org
4. $50 startup fee : Pay via paypal by sending bank account payments to mvp@apamsa.org, or contact cfo@apamsa.org if you would like to mail a check.

4. Get Online with APAMSA

You may access APAMSA's website at www.APAMSA.org to find out the latest news. It is imperative you sign up for the list serv at <http://www.apamsa.org/Alex/MembershipApplication.php>. If you are a chapter officer, make sure to indicate you're a chapter officer, so you're added to the chapter officers list serv as well. Encourage your local chapter members to join the national APAMSA member's listserv and find out the latest on Asian Pacific American health.

 APAMSA	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
--	---

5. Recruit an Advisor

The advisor can be the most important member of your organization as she/he is the only guarantee of continuity. As with all organizations it is inevitable to have periods of activity that wax and wane over the years. The advisor can keep the organization alive through these periods. Thus, it is important to identify an advisor who will play an active role in the organization and has some experience in guiding new and young organizations. The advisor does not need to be a physician but should understand the issues and problems a physician would face.

If you need help with identifying a potential advisor, consider asking your Dean of Student Affairs or your Office of Minority Affairs. For extremely supportive advisors who may want to get involved on the national level, consider nominating him or her for the National APAMSA's Physician's Advisory Board. Contact your Membership VP for more info.

6. Contact your Student Council and/or Office of Student Affairs

Each school has their unique way of recognizing a new student organization. Usually your school's Medical Student Government/Council oversees this. If they don't, the Student Affairs Office should. Some schools offer club grants and startup funds so it's a good idea to be recognized. Also don't limit yourself to your medical school's student government. Many schools also have a Graduate Student Council as well as a general student government that oversees all student organizations (including undergraduate organizations). Consider joining these as well to open more doors of opportunity.

7. Officers and Members

Starting a new chapter can be a daunting task, so developing one with the help of a core group of members can ease your burden. If you're having trouble finding members, ask your advisor if he/she knows of some students that may believe in your vision. Spread the word by emailing potential members an APAMSA flyer. E-mail mvp@apamsa.org for recruitment materials.

Decide on a government structure. Consider a normal officer structure (Pres, VP, etc.) or one with different chairs to share the responsibility (i.e. the Yale structure listed in the example constitution.)

6. Planning your First Official Meeting

The first meeting will be one of your most important meetings, as it requires an intensive recruitment effort. This is your time to shine. It's your moment to convince your school the need for an APAMSA chapter. Some ideas for this first meeting are as follows:

Announcing the meeting:

	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
---	---

- a. Schedule early in the semester. You'll be competing with the limited time that medical students have to devote to extracurricular activities. Also be conscious of both 1st and 2nd year class schedules as well as other well-established organization's meetings (i.e. AMA, AMSA, etc) to find the optimal time for your meetings. Many schools have orientation packets for incoming students which you may request to add an APAMSA flyer.
- b. Even before the semester starts, a personalized letter on APAMSA letterhead (contact the Membership VP for APAMSA's official letterhead file) to the new incoming students can really attract some new members. Be sure to include a membership application form (download from website) to get them signed up even before starting school. Your Office of Admissions will usually give you a list of incoming APA students if requested.
- c. Announce the meeting well in advance (1 week minimum) to avoid potential last minute conflicts with other medical student activities. Also give yourself time so you can reserve rooms and order food.
- d. Announce your meetings via numerous mediums (email, class announcements, flyers, student government, chalk boards, etc.) to try to contact as many potential members as possible. Try to have some free food to attract members as free food is the easiest way to attract an audience.

During the meeting:

- a. Pass out applications for APAMSA membership or direct them to the APAMSA website for the online membership application.
- b. Remind members that national APAMSA registration is FREE.
- c. Plan out what you want to do for this first year. An easy community service project that most of APAMSA's chapters do their first year is a bone marrow drive or the hepatitis B awareness project. More information can be obtained from our website and MVP.
- d. Announce officer elections if you don't have one already.
- e. Have at least the next scheduled meeting ready to announce (even better if you can have the whole semester scheduled to lock in dates, reserve rooms, and avoid conflicts with other organizations' meetings).
- f. It would be advantageous to have someone, preferably the chapter secretary, to write down minutes for meetings. This way you may email your discussions to interested members who were unable to attend and keep them "in the loop."

7. Fundraising

The need for money to do projects is obvious. The problem is while this is one of the most essential factors for a successful organization it is also one of the toughest and time-consuming projects. APAMSA has tried to make this process a little easier by offering tips from many of our successful chapters. Please see the fundraising section.

8. Planning Projects and Events

 APAMSA	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
--	---

Look through the Chapter Project section. APAMSA has numerous ideas to help you plan out initial projects to get your new organization going. The ideas range from minimal planning to ones that'll take a good few months to work. Use this guide to help plan out the entire year. APAMSA is also interested in hearing about new successful events from local chapters. Please contact the MVP to let us hear about what's going on at your chapter.

9. Contact your Regional Director

The APAMSA website should have the latest info on who your regional directors are. They are your direct link to the National officers, and local and regional chapters. The director can update you on upcoming intra-region events (i.e. regional conferences, regional school get-togethers, etc.) and National business. The directors are also your primary contact and advocate for questions or problems relating to National activities. Let them know you're the contact for your school so you can be welcomed to your region!

10. Attend the APAMSA National Conference

- a. The conference schedules some of the top APA leaders within the country year after year to speak and present workshops. It's an amazing experience to meet and learn from these dynamic speakers over a variety of topics.
- b. If you're having problems recruiting members and getting current ones to be active, attend the conference and invigorate your membership. The conference is the best way to learn about APAMSA and find out how APAMSA can help you.
- c. Networking and making new friends with APAMSA members who share the same vision and goals as you makes the conference worthwhile.
- d. Get involved on the National level. The conference is where national officers, standing committee chairs, and regional directors are elected.
- e. The conference is also where the annual National Business Meeting takes place. This is where your chapter gets an update on what's happening with National and has a say in directing APAMSA's future, including national elections. The business meeting is also where your chapter can present a resolution or amendment to the constitution. National APAMSA could not exist without the support and participation of you, the local chapter.
- f. Check out our website www.apamsa.org for the latest info on the coming National APAMSA conference.

	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
---	---

Tips on being a great Chapter Officer!

1. Frequent communication is key to the success of any organization. Even when it feels like no one is reading your e-mail updates, keep sending them!! Importantly, STAY IN CONTACT WITH NATIONAL APAMSA. Keep your regional directors and the national officers posted about your events. Please send in your chapter profile EACH time your chapter has elections. This will ensure you do not lose contact with National APAMSA.

2. Recruit First years! First years are essential for the longevity and success of the APAMSA chapter at your school. Some suggestions for increasing first year involvement:

- Send an intro to APAMSA letter to all accepted students before they arrive in the Fall. Many schools send out packets of information to their students and often will ask student groups if they'd like to include recruitment materials.
- Get involved with recruiting. When students come to visit for interviews or for revisits have APAMSA members get involved with some of the recruiting events, such as dinners, parties, or other social activities so people can get a feel for what APAMSA is before they arrive for medical school.
- Have elections/appoint one or more APAMSA 1st year reps onto your executive board. Also, appoint first years to coordinate some of your projects—such as health fairs, Diwali, lunar new years, etc....

3. Do not limit your recruitment efforts to just East or South Asians.

"Take concerted steps to promote recruitment from the South Asian community. In this regard, it may help to publicize that APAMSA is the only NATIONAL organization which provides representation for ALL Asian-American medical students. Also, we suggest your APAMSA chapter work with existing South Asian organizations in the area, whether in terms of jointly planning events, cross-publicizing each others' functions, or both. Locally, these steps will help you to build a stronger APAMSA chapter, and nationally, they will also serve the deeper purpose of helping to unite the Asian community -- a step that will be vital in drawing this country's attention to Asian-American health issues!"

4. Publicize your events! The success of any event requires that you advertise what you are going to do to the community you're targeting. Contact your local school newspaper or local Asian community newspapers about your events, ie health fairs, regional conferences, bone marrow drives, Hep B projects. Getting your chapter recognized by the press is not only good for APAMSA as a whole, but the rewards for your local chapter are tremendous. The deans of your medical school will be thrilled to know that your chapter is representing your school so well. When it comes time to ask them for funding, they will take your recognized efforts into account.

	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association
APAMSA	Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare

5. Be energetic and passionate about your position! Serving as an APAMSA chapter officer is an incredible honor. You are in a position to educate and serve your community. Remember that members of APAMSA are in a unique position to do something about eliminating health disparities in the APA community, so please participate in our National Service Projects to eliminate Hepatitis B and increase the Bone Marrow Donor Registrants. As an organization who understands and associates ourselves with Asian cultures, we have a responsibility to use our cultural understanding and our medical knowledge to improve the health and well-being of our communities.

 APAMSA	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
--	---

APAMSA Year Round Timeline of Events

Congratulations on being elected a chapter officer, here's a timeline to guide you through the year. Here's a timeline of events to help guide you through the year. Feel free to adapt it so it meets the needs of your chapter.

Late Spring/Summer Timeline

After being elected, make sure you speak to the old officers and get their old files and advice about how to be a good officer.

1. Submit your Chapter Profile with the new officer contacts at www.apamsa.org.
Get the supplies, financial reports, and other contacts from previous officers.
2. Register your new officers with your Student Activities office, if you can.
3. Include a welcome letter from APAMSA in the new student's packet mailer, if your school permits.
4. Subscribe yourself to the chapter officers list serv by registering here:
<http://www.apamsa.org/Alex/MembershipApplication.php>
5. During the summer, prepare your recruitment supplies such as fliers and posters so you can post them when new students arrive.

Early Fall Semester

Everyone's now back at school and things are moving fast.

1. Plan on recruitment activities
2. Hold your first general meeting. Check out the Chapter Resources (<http://www.apamsa.org/membership5.php>) page for recruiting materials.
3. Prepare ahead to attend the national conference.
4. Elect first year officers—UPDATE New officer information by submitting a chapter profile at www.apamsa.org.
5. Subscribe yourself to the list serv:
<http://www.apamsa.org/Alex/MembershipApplication.php>
6. Register with your group with Student Activities office if you haven't already.
7. Represent your chapter at your Student Activities Fair

Late Fall Semester

National Conference is usually in the Fall

1. Announce if your chapter is going to National Conference this year, and solicit attendees
2. Get the Treasurer to file for Travel Funds with your school
3. Look for sample Fundraising Letters and Fundraising idea documents at the Chapter Resources page.
4. Book your flights, accommodations, and make sure your attendees have registered for the National Conference ahead of time.
5. Submit proposed amendments to the Constitution, Letters of Intent, CV if you want to run for National Positions or change the Constitution.

 APAMSA	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
--	---

6. Turn in First Bi-Annual Chapter report to the MVP.

At National Conference:

1. Attend the workshops and keynote talks, bond with your chapter, see the sights!
2. Run for National or Regional Office, talk about APIA health, and have FUN!

Late Fall/ Winter

1. Get in contact with your newly elected Regional Directors. Contact mvp@apamsa.org for their contact inf.
2. Try and hold an observance for Diwali
3. Start planning to participate in the National Hepatitis B campaign and Bone Marrow Drive.

Spring Semester

1. Participate in the National Hepatitis B campaign and Bone marrow drive.
2. Stay tuned for info from your regional directors to participate in regional conferences.
3. Try and observe the Asian Lunar New Year, which is usually around January/February.
4. REQUIRED Chapter Reports will be due early (February or March) this semester.

Late Spring

1. Hold elections for new chapter officers and do your best to give them as much information as possible, so that your APAMSA chapter can remain active.

	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
---	---

Event Ideas

APAMSA is a “living archive” of projects that can help your chapter become more involved. The following section is constantly changing as chapters like you develop new innovative projects. Please contact the membership vice-president to add to this list.

Community Service Events

Bone Marrow Registration Drives: This is a well-established APAMSA project. APA bone marrow registrants are severely underrepresented in the National Bone Marrow registry. Join our national effort to save lives!! Contact the APAMSA bone marrow chair for more info, marrow@apamsa.org

Hepatitis B Immunizations: Another signature APAMSA project. Hepatitis B is a devastating illness that affects millions of APAs and is completely preventable with immunizations. Join us in our quest to eliminate this “silent killer.” Contact the APAMSA hepatitis chair for more info, hepatitis@apamsa.org.

APAMSA’s Fight to Break the Hep B Cycle: Hepatitis B is a devastating illness that affects millions of APAs. Asians have the highest rate of hepatitis B infection of all ethnic groups. One out of 4 people with chronic hepatitis B virus infection who became chronically infected during childhood will die of HBV-related liver cancer or cirrhosis. That’s 100 million of the 400 million chronic HBV infected people in the world. Hepatitis B is a completely preventable disease through vigorous education, screenings, and immunizations. Join us in our quest to break the Hepatitis B Cycle by participating in APAMSA’s Fight in your community! Contact the APAMSA Hepatitis B Chair for more information: hepatitis@apamsa.org

Community Health Fair. APAMSA health fairs are the trademark event at most of our local chapters. This is where you can utilize your cultural understanding and medical knowledge to offer free cholesterol, diabetes, blood pressure, vision, hearing, and lead screening of the APA community. Some schools also have assisted recent immigrants from Asian countries as well as other uninsured members of the community to find primary care physicians. In addition, health fairs serve as an important mechanism to disseminate health information regarding cancer, smoking, domestic violence, and many more topics through brochures and counseling services, which we are able to offer in multiple different languages. Take an active role in health care access in your community. Location is key so do some research about where you might be able to reach the most people.

Fundraisers: Organize a fundraiser to help an important cause. APAMSA chapters have been instrumental in raising money for the Tsunami victims, the Hurricane disasters, the South Asian earthquake victims, orphanages in China, and much more.

	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
---	---

Be a kid: Children in the hospital need company, and maybe their parents need a break. It doesn't have to be fancy: play a board game, play some cards, read a book to them. This is a great idea for those who don't have a lot of time to commit.

Big Sib/Little Sib: You know more than you think. If you're a second year medical student, help out a first year. If you're a first year, help a pre-med fill out their applications. If you're a pre-med, help a high school student understand what it takes to go to college and open their eyes to many facets of health care.

Mentorship:

Faculty-student dinners: These are a great way to encourage interaction between APA students and physicians. Have a series of dinners with different APA faculty members and ask them to speak about their experiences being Asian in medicine.

Academic Events

Organize a mock anatomy/histology/pathology practical exam.

Be a resource to your classmates with old exam questions, review books, texts, etc.

Boards and Wards: Pivotal transitions occur at the end of 2nd year when students begin to think about the national boards and adjusting to life in the hospital. Upper-class students, especially fourth years who have gone through the process including matching are invaluable resources. Invite the upper-class students to your meetings to share their experiences.

Asian American Health Care: There are innumerable topics that can be addressed including hepatitis B, mental health, domestic violence, etc. within the Asian American community. Speakers can be local resources or from neighboring cities. Often these events can be cosponsored with other groups to ease the cost of funding.

Organize an APAMSA Regional or National Conference. This is an ambitious project that can supplement your medical school's training of future physicians. APAMSA conferences are some of the most effective mechanisms to bring together medical students, physicians, and health care professionals to learn about issues APA health. This is an opportunity to really enhance your school's curriculum and further APAMSA's mission statement. Contact mvp@apamsa.org if your chapter is interested in hosting an APAMSA conference. It is important to bid early for hosting the national or regional conferences.

Social Events

Pot Luck Dinner and a Movie: A cheap, easy, and fun opportunity to show off your culinary talents and to allow upper and lower-class students to know each other. It's best to host this event at an officer's house that can hold a lot of members.

 APAMSA	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
--	--

Inter-School Mixer: This brings together APA students from the other graduate schools (law, arts, management). It can be held at a local bar or at someone's place. Usually the groups at the respective schools contribute monetarily.

Eating-Out: This activity works well for small and secluded schools. The organization arranges for a discounted price at a local Asian restaurant and provides transportation. Students are responsible for their own bills. Those who hate to cook or who have no food in the fridge are sure to come.

Night on the Town: This is a more elaborate event sponsored by a number of different APA medical school groups. It works well in the big cities or where there are a lot of different medical schools in a close proximity.

Cultural Events

Ring in the New Year: Both Diwali (the Indian New Year) and Lunar New Year can be celebrated by your organization. It can either be a small-scale event or a large school wide party (usually supported by funding from your schools governing council). Both celebrations are often celebrated with food, ethnic dress, and music. It allows the community to not only take pride but to share its culture with others.

Alternative Medicine: All Asian ethnic groups have some history of alternative healing practices whether it be acupuncture, aryuvedic, herbalistic, or spiritual. Increasing numbers of non-Asians are interested in this topic as well. A speaker not only can educate APA students about their heritage and history of healing, it can also clarify widely held misconceptions as well. Some schools have also created displays on alternative healing methods (herbs, instruments, healers) in conjunction with the talk.

Talent Show: Your classmates are guaranteed to surprise you with their hidden talents for poetry, singing, dancing, comedy, etc. There's more to med students than just studying...

Political Events

Voter Registration Drives: There are numerous ways to obtain registration forms: volunteer services in the hospital, undergraduate political parties and local elections office (in the phone book).

Immigration Forums: Not since 1965 have there been such dramatic legislative change in the arena of immigration. Ranging from restrictions on social services to immigrants to financial aid for non-citizen students, these bills will have a significant impact on the US. These forums can be informative only or can serve as the basis for a debate on the issues immigration reform raises, especially the role of the physician-to-be in serving as the "gate-keeper" to access to health care.

Medical School Admissions/Affirmative Action Forum: Perhaps no other issue divides APA medical students as much as affirmative action. For many years, APA students in all forums of higher education have felt a quota or glass ceiling placed on their admissions, especially in medicine. Some schools have successfully gathered information on admissions or have engaged their deans/directors of admissions on this issue. This forum can be an opportunity to present some of the data to the community and to raise some important issues such as admissions stereotypes of the APA applicant. It can also serve as a springboard for a broader discussion of Affirmative Action. (This can be a particularly divisive issue)

Discrimination in Academic Medicine: As more and more APA medical students become interested in academic medicine as a career, the overt and subtle barriers to tenure are apparent. A panel of faculty members at various stages of the tenure track progress and in different fields (clinical vs. basic science) can address this issue.

	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
---	---

Fundraising

When asking for money, show your dedication and enthusiasm for APAMSA. The Deans, Alumni association, and sponsors should come away from your presentation with the feeling that even if they didn't give you the money, you would start an APAMSA chapter regardless. You should convince them that you want to make this a reality and that you have a well thought out plan for doing this. You need to clearly state your reasons for why you think APAMSA is needed at your school and what benefit the organization would bring to your school.

Funding Resources at Your School

Don't be afraid to ask: Most medical schools, both public and private, are happy to support APA medical student organizations. Good places to start are: Dean's Office, Medical student council, Student Affairs, Minority Affairs. Be sure to emphasize that your events are open to all members of your medical school. Similarly, select events that will appeal to all your classmates.

Ask a specific academic department related to your event (for example, the Infectious Disease department or Microbiology department for a Hepatitis B education lecture) It's always a good idea to co-sponsor events with other student organizations, particularly if you're just starting an APAMSA chapter. This fosters collaboration and introduces you to the specific requirements for planning an event at your school.

Fundraising in Your Community

Be creative. Planning a fundraiser in your community can be fun, lucrative, and productive. It gives you an opportunity to explain what APAMSA is about and garner support.

Some successful ideas from years past include:

Baked goods sale (e.g. Chinese baked goods), Charity dance or dinner, Selling potluck lunch to your classmates, Cash / prize raffle

Other Potential Funding Resources

AMA-Medical Student Section Policy Promotion Grant: Available to medical student groups interested in conducting projects and activities designed to further AMA policy. Grants awarded are $250 per project. For more information and an application, please call 1-800-AMA-3211 Ext. 4742.

 APAMSA	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
--	---

Resources

Web Resources and Listservs

APAMSA <http://www.apamsa.org>

Asian Pacific Islander American Health Forum (APIAHF)

Sponsors the API Health Information Network, the API Center for Census Information and other programs addressing issues such as HIV, tobacco use, and women's health in the

API communities (see Programs)

<http://www.apiahf.org>

Asian Pacific Islander HealthInfo Network:

Health information, resources, and policy issues in APA communities

To subscribe: email majordomo@igc.apc.org

Subject line: (blank)

First line of message type:

“subscribe API-HealthInfo <your email address>”

American Medical Association - Medical Students Section Minority Affairs Committee (MAC) deals with minority issues in medicine. http://www.ama-

assn.org/ama/pub/category/20.html

American Public Health Association (APHA) - Asian Pacific Islander Caucus

<http://www.apha.org/>

The Anti-Drug Website

Information on how to keep kids off recreational drugs - web pages available in Chinese, Korean, Vietnamese and Cambodian as well as English and Spanish

<http://www.theantidrug.com/>

Asian Community Mental Health (ACMHS)

A California based organization that is devoted to providing culturally competent behavioral health care <http://www.acmhs.org/>

Asian Health Services Community Health Center Home Page

Another California based organization that seeks to advocate for API immigrant and refugee health rights and access <http://www.ahschc.org/index.htm>

Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC) provides the latest AAMC activities, publications data, releases in the world of academic medicine.

www.aamc.org

 APAMSA	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
--	--

Association of Asian Pacific Community Health Organizations (AAPCHO)

An organization devoted to providing culturally competent, linguistically accessible and affordable primary care to AAPIs <http://www.aapcho.org/>

The 80-20 Initiative

A political organization interested in demonstrating the strength of the APA vote through bloc voting and selective candidate endorsement <http://www.80-20.to/>

Health and Human Services AAPI Links

Downloadable versions of the HHS agency's implementation plans for the "The White House Initiative on Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders"
<http://www.omhrc.gov/aapicontents.htm>

Healthy People 2010 Home Page

Information about the sweeping government initiative promoting public health and disease prevention <http://web.health.gov/healthypeople/default.htm>

National Asian Women's Health Organization (NAWHO)

An organization involved in education, research, community self-empowerment and public policy advocacy in the areas of mental health, reproductive and sexual rights as well as overall public health and social justice issues <http://www.nawho.org/>

The Office of Minority Health Resource Center

Includes info on initiatives to eliminate racial and ethnic disparities in health <http://www.omhrc.gov/Welcome.HTM>

The Office of Research on Minority Health

Includes NIH research and training opportunities
<http://www1.od.nih.gov/ormh/main.html>

The White House Initiative on Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders

Includes the initiative itself (downloadable), news releases and interesting facts on the state of AAPI health <http://www.hrsa.gov/aapi/>

APAMSA Special Project Partners

National Marrow Donor Program

Check out the pages on our site (programs section) that explain why API patients need API donors and how you can set up a donor recruitment drive and help save a life.
<http://www.apamsa.org/programs3.php>

 APAMSA	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
--	---

Hepatitis B Project

Also check out our web page (programs section) on this subject:

<http://www.apamsa.org/programs4.php>

Books / Journals / Articles

"A Glass Ceiling for Asian Scientists?"

Jeffrey Mervis, Science 2005 310: 606-607, October 28th issue

<http://www.sciencemag.org/cgi/content/full/310/5748/606>

Confronting Critical Health Issues of Asian and Pacific Islander Americans. Edited by Nolan W.S. Zane, David T. Takeuchi, and Kathleen N.J. Young.

Arthur Chen, Peter Ng, Peter Sam, Don Ng, Denise Abe, Rosalind Ott, Wally Lim, Sue Chan, and Winston Wong. "Special Health Problems of Asians and Pacific Islanders." Clinical Preventative Medicine. Mosby-Year Book, Inc. 1993.

Asian American and Pacific Islander Journal of Health (AAPIJH): Please encourage your institution's libraries to subscribe to the AAPIJH. Dr. Moon Chen is the editor and can be reached at: 5525 Corey Swirl Drive, Dublin, OH 43017-3057. (614) 766-5219.

Gang Xu, J. Jon Veloski, Mohammadreza Hojat, Joseph Gonnella, and Benjamin Bacharach.

"Longitudinal Comparison of the Academic Performances of Asian-American and White Medical Students" Academic Medicine, vol. 68, number 1, 1993, pages 82-86.

David Babbott, Dewitt Baldwin, Charles Killian, and Sheila O'Leary Weaver. "Racial-Ethnic Background and Specialty Choice: A Study of US Medical School Graduates in 1987." Academic Medicine, vol. 64, number 10, 1989, pages 595-9.

Beth Dawson, Carolyn Iwamoto, Linette Ross, Ronald Nungester, Dabid Swanson, and Robert Volle. "Performance on the National Board of Medical Examiners Part I Examination by Men and Women of Different Race and Ethnicity." JAMA, vol. 272, number 9, 1994, page 674-9.

Enas Enas and Jawahar Mehta. "Malignant Coronary Artery Disease in Young Asian Indians: Thoughts on pathogenesis, Prevention, and Therapy." Clinical Cardiology, vol. 18, 1995, pages 131-5.

Dr. Enas Enas. "Shifting Paradigms and Changing Horizons in Medicine: Challenges and Opportunities of the Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association (APAMSA)," Keynote Address at the National Convention.

Sean Wu. "Racial Discrimination in the Medical School Admissions Process: Real or

 APAMSA	Asian Pacific American Medical Student Association Facing the Challenges in APA Healthcare
--	---

Perceived?" APAMSA Medical School Admissions Standing Committee, 1995.

Reports/Clearinghouses

"Ending of Health Care for Immigrants?: Analysis of Pending Immigrants Benefits Disqualifications on APIA Health and the Health of the Public" APIAHF Policy Brief - June 1996. (available on APIAHF WWW Homepage)

The Health and Well-Being of Asian and Pacific Islander American Women. Asian and Pacific Islanders for Reproductive Health (APIRH) - November 1995. (available from APIRH, (510) 268-8988 or email APIRH@igc.apc.org)

The Commonwealth Fund Survey of Women's Health - July 1993

The Commonwealth Fund Survey of Minority Health Care - March 1995 (available from the Commonwealth Fund, (212) 535-0400)

The Hepatitis B Coalition has many educational items for health care professionals and patients (camera ready brochures in many Asian languages, videos, audio tapes) about hepatitis B. Visit www.immunize.org or e-mail deborah@immunize.org to receive a list of resources.

Contact Us

National Officers: <http://www.apamsa.org/aboutus7.php>

Regional Officers: <http://www.apamsa.org/aboutus8.php>, see below to find out which region you belong.

Region I: New England

CT, ME, MA, NH, RI, VT

Region II: New York/New Jersey

NY, NJ

Region III: Mid-Atlantic

DE, DC, MD, PA, VA, WV

Region IV: Southeast

AL, FL, GA, MS, NC, SC, TN

Region V: Midwest

KY, IN, MI, OH

Region VI: N. Central

CO, IA, KS, NE, MN, MO, IL, ND, SD, WI, WY

Region VII: West

AK, HI, UT, ID, CA, MT, NV, OR, WA

Region VIII: Southwest

AZ, AR, LA, NM, OK, TX